The 46664 global initiative, named after Nelson Mandela's prison number on Robben Island where he was incarcerated for 18 years, will raise money from a celebrity-filled concert, and associated CD and DVD, as well as through a global fundraising event via the telephone or Internet. The FedEx Web site, www.fedex.com, provides additional background information on the event and initiative, as well as a link to the official 46664 Web site.

"As a company facilitating global trade, FedEx is committed to causes that help improve the communities where we live and work around the world," said Robert W. Elliott, President, FedEx Express Europe, Middle East, India and Africa. "FedEx is proud to support Nelson Mandela's fight against HIV/AIDS, a global pandemic with devastating effects on so many of our communities."

Preparation is underway for the November 29 concert featuring artists such as Bono, Brian May and Roger Taylor of Queen, Peter Gabriel and Beyonce, among others, who are joining together to perform and record songs specifically written for the 46664 campaign. During the show, influential entertainers and politicians will spread the word about the devastating effect of AIDS, and seek to raise additional funds for vital research and care programs. The concert will reach an estimated television audience of more than 3 billion people in 90 countries.
